NEW-YORK CITY.

The downtown sidewalks never before exhibited such a busy fringe of smallware and toy pedlers at Christmas time as now. The usual modest groups of shoestring and collar-button operators gaze wistfully at the lavish outfits of the energetic venders of mechanical toys and Japanese trifles, and many people envy the completeness of lungs manifested in the introduction of this Santa Claus stock.

The advance in railroad freights to the seaboard has caused a marked falling off during the week in the receipts of wheat flour. The local trade, however, does not yet feel a shortage, and flour continues to be one of the cheapest products of this low-priced era.

HOW THE EURYDICE LOST ONE OF HER CREW The British ship Eurydice, which arrived here on Tuesday from Liverpool, lost a man overboard on the passage. The story of how he was lost and what was done to try to save him was told yester-day by First Mate Morrow of the ship. The lost sailor was William Williamson, a Liverpool boy, moderated and the reefs were shaken out and the jib set. Then suddenly at 11 a. m., out of the west northwest came a fierce squal. The wind increased to a gale and every now and then a squall of wind and rain swept over the water, lashing the surface of the ocean into a white foam. It was now furl and reef again to get the ship under easy sail. The upper mizzentopsail was reefed down and "seven men from all the world," among whom was Williamson, were sent aloft to reef the foretopsail. The ship was thrown close up to the wind to shake the wind out of the sails so that the sailors could handle them. Williamson was on the weather yardarm, and the "slatting" of the sail threw him off into the boiling sea. All hands were called, lines and a life buoy were thrown overboard and a sailor was ordered to the foretopgallant yard to keep a lookout for the man. The jib and the maintopmast staysail were set

The jib and the maintopmast staysail were set and in the gale and the tremendous sea the captain proceeded to wear ship so as to bring her back to near the place where the man fell overboard. A lifeboat was on skids near the break of the poop and the sailors tried to launch it, but it got away from them and was dashed to pieces about the deck by the heavy rolling of the ship.

By this time the man overhoard could not be seen even by the lookout aloft, so the captain reluctantly gave up the search and proceeded on his way to this port.

recent massacre of the Armenians by the Turks exhibits the same barbarous ferocity that was shown in the massacre of the Greeks at Scio, and of the Bulgarians when Eugene Schuyler startled all English-speaking people by telling of the piles of slaughtered men, women and children that he saw in the smoking ruins of the Bulgarian villages. The Christian Governments of Europe have shown a ter-rible apathy about the sufferings of their fellow-Christians, unless when moved by their own in-terests or by the sheer force of public opinion. We all recollect that the Turkish Government is based upon a religion that preaches hatred and con-tempt for all other religions, and that no Mametan Government can be other than constantly oppressive to the Christians. DISHONEST CONDUCTORS CAUGHT.

Nine conductors of the West Shore Ratiroad have been discharged for passing people over the road and taking and pocketing money for it. It is not a new trick, but it was not learned that it had been begun again until last week. Superintendent Wattsailor was William Williamson, a Liverpool boy, twenty years old. The storm came on at 4 o'clock on the morning of December 13. The topsails were reefed down and the jib furled. At 8 a. m. the gale and when he asked for their tickets one of them handed to him $2. They mistook their man, however, for Murphy returned the money and made them get off the train at the next station, as they refused to pay the fare. The conductor told the superintendent about the incident, and Mr. Wattson lost no time in starting
